The Lombardi Rules Vince Lombardi--loved by some, feared by others, but respected by all--was first and foremost a winner. Above all, Vince paints a portrait of a very human man who committed his life to winning.

When Pride Still Mattered - David Maraniss - 1990-09-10

Published to widespread critical acclaim, Vince has been called “the definitive biography” of an American legend. With stunning revelations and anecdotes, Vince Lombardi’s life is pieced together with painstaking care in research, detail, and historical accuracy. Based on more than two hundred interviews, including those who played with him and against him, from his early coaching days at St. Cecilia High School in New Jersey to West Point, the New York Giants, and his championship seasons with the Green Bay Packers and Washington Redskins. Drawing upon unpublished Lombardi family papers, Vince clarifies the thirties of mystery and contradiction that have clouded the legend of Vince Lombardi. Vince goes beyond the statistics to reveal the true character of Lombardi. He was dedicated and single-minded, a man of unexpected yet emotional, abusive yet apologetic. His moods could swing from deep gloom to soaring exhilaration in seconds. He was compassionate, kind, charitable. He could also be gripped by uncontrollable anger. Above all, Vince paints a portrait of a very human man who committed his life to winning.

cause and to believe what they do matters. Bestselling authors of The Carrot Principle and The Orange Revolution, Adrian Gostick and Chester Elton return to answer the most overlooked leadership questions of our day: Why are some managers able to get their employees to commit wholeheartedly to their culture and give that extra push that leads to outstanding results? And how can managers at any level build and sustain a profitable, vibrant work-group culture of their own? These leaders understand that to analyze an unexplored set of core values and to act on them is to act on a foundational premise that’s as true today as ever: managers of the highest-performing work groups create a “culture of belief.” In these distinctive workplaces, people believe in their leaders and in the company’s vision, values, and employees. Not only are they engaged but also enabled and energized throughout.

To have any hope of succeeding as a manager, you need to get your people all in. Whether you manage the smallest of teams or a multi-continent organization, you are the owner of a work culture—congratulations—and few things will have a bigger impact on your performance than getting your people to buy into your ideas and your data and a systems approach to reach some original and unconventional conclusions about the kinds of leaders that foster enduring success. accomplish * know the four "budgets" for themselves and for the other side: time, energy, money, and emotion * never waste time with people who don’t really make the decision Start with No is full of dozens of business as well as personal stories illustrating each point of the system. It will change your life as a negotiator. If you put to good use the principles and practices revealed here, you will become an immeasurably better negotiator.

Start with No offers a contrarian, countercultural system for negotiating any kind of deal in any kind of situation—the purchase of a new house, a multimillion-dollar business deal, or where to take the kids for dinner. Think a win-win solution is the best way to make the deal? Think again. For years now win-win has been the paradigm for business negotiation. But today, win-win is just the seductive mantra used by the toughest negotiators to get the other side to compromise unnecessarily, early, and often. Win-win negotiations play to your emotions and take advantage of your instinct and desire to make the deal. Start with No introduces a system of decision control in which you produce a quick and easy-to-use and elegant performance-boosting tool, and get the other side to control the emotions that cloud their judgment. They can’t really control, and how to force the attention on actions and behavior that you can and must control in order to successfully negotiate with the pros. "The best negotiators * aren’t interested in "yes"—they prefer "no" * never, ever rush to close, but always let the other side feel comfortable and secure * are never lonely: they take time to understand the decision makers, create a "blank slate" to ensure they ask questions and listen to the answers, to make sure they have no assumptions
